See CNG, Triton XV, Lot 617: "... Pharkadon and Triikka were the main fake producing taurokathapsia cities and not so much Larissa, although the quantities of genuine coins produced there were vast. The explanation to this discrepancy is simple: the mint of Larissa was obviously much better organized and as a result better supervised too. There must have been controls there that made it very difficult to take dies away so that they could be used to strike fakes in a unofficial workshop; also, striking fakes within the official mint premises must again have been very difficult due to constant supervision of the workers...".
